FORWARD MARCH

Copyright © 1959, by Warner Bros. Inc.

One day Mary Jane and Sniffles passed by a pottery shop which had a sign in the window reading, "Closed For Vacation."

"Look!" Mary Jane exclaimed as she peered at the display of ceramic dolls inside the shop. "I wonder why they all look so sad."

"Beats me!" Sniffles shrugged. "Just the other day they were all smiling!"

Just then a tiny voice called, "Little girl, little girl! Please help us!"

"My heavens!" Mary Jane gasped. "One of the dolls is motioning for me to come into the shop. Would it be all right if I did?"

"Sure!" Sniffles assured her. "It must be an emergency of some kind. Why don't you make yourself small, and I'll show you where we can get in through a hole in the floor?"

Closing her eyes tightly, Mary Jane chanted: "Now I close my eyes real tight; Then I wish with all my might; Magic words of poof, poof, piffles; Make me just as small as Sniffles!"

Moments later they were inside the shop, talking to the doll who had called for help.

"Once every day we've been having a grand parade since the owner left on his vacation," the doll explained. "But now we can't have our parades any more!"

"Why not?" Mary Jane inquired.

"I'll tell you why!" a ceramic gentleman in a beautiful band leader's uniform spoke up. "You can't have a parade without a band, and you can't have a band without a leader, and you can't have a leader without a baton. That's the story in a nutshell."

Mary Jane glanced around the shop. "Well, I see the musicians over there," she pointed. "And you're dressed like a band leader. So what's your problem?"

"I tripped while marching yesterday and broke my baton!" the leader wailed. "And I simply can't lead the band without it!"

A puzzled frown crossed Mary Jane's face. "I don't see why you can't," she said. "After all, it's just a stick, isn't it?"

"It's a very special stick!" the leader pouted indignantly. "It has a knob on one end, and is a bright red color, and has tassles tied to it. I just can't lead a band without a baton, so there'll be no more parades, and that's final!"

A chorus of disappointed groans arose from the ceramic dolls who had been listening on the nearby shelves.

The members of the band with their fancy uniforms, the clowns with their comical faces, and the king and queen in their royal robes, all slumped in their places.

"Wait a minute!" Mary Jane cried just then, as an idea struck her. "I think I can do something about this!"

Mary Jane fled from the room and made a dash for her house. Some time later she returned, triumphantly bearing aloft a glistening new baton!

The band leader accepted the new baton with a surprised and grateful bow, the band struck up a cheerful march, and soon the room was echoing with the light-hearted laughter of all the parading dolls.

"Where ever did you find the baton stick?" Sniffles asked with wonder as he and Mary Jane eagerly joined the parade.

"It only took a minute to make it from a hatpin," Mary Jane explained with a glowing smile. "A bit of thread for tassles, a few dabs of quick-drying nail polish for paint, and presto, there it was!"

"Marvelous!" Sniffles squeaked with admiration. "It certainly didn't take long for you to pin down a happy solution for this problem!" he winked.

The sport a boy grows up with... Shooting a Daisy®

☞ In the game of football you have to be a consistent and accurate performer. Shooting is the same way. In both, you must practice to develop your skills.

Practice makes perfect and in no time you will be hitting bullseyes. I know because I have been hitting bullseyes for over 30 years with footballs and Daisy B-B guns.

Now my son Ken and I are having fun shooting together. I feel like I am helping him to learn about the proper use of guns as well as developing confidence in his own abilities which should help him succeed in life. ☞
